The Dragon Whisperer Newsletter
Fall - 2010

Fall is felling, the trees are leaving!

10/14/2006

Fall is here at last. I think that fall is the most beautiful of all the seasons. The colors of the leaves as they change from their normal green are breathtaking. To the left is one of my favorite Fall pictures.

I took this picture at a local park at sunrise. When you have a furry companion, you have to be up early and out the door for the morning walk. The majority of the year, this means out the door while it is dark, before dawn. And, yes, this means 365 days a year come rain, shine, or blizzard!

Walks in the forest are really great! You see so many of the inhabitants getting ready for what is to come, dare I say it, Winter. Just as a precaution, I strap on my 1851 Navy Colt .44 cal revolver, before leaving the house. You never know when you may have an encounter with some of the larger predators that wander thru the forest, mountain lions, bears, etc.

Events

Retirement

It's hard to believe that it's been 8 years since I retired. Where has the time went?

During that time there have been a number who have entered retirement or gone to the last roundup. So many just seem to disappear to who knows where.

Sigh. Out of site, out of mind!

November Elections

I'm happy to say that so many voters have come to their senses and elected people that may be able to undo the damage that has been done during the past two years.
Traveling by Plane?

No, thank you very much!

I have no intention to get radiated by full body scanners or submitting to invasive pat downs by TSA. They are going too far, as far as I'm concerned.

So if I go anywhere, I will drive or take transportation that does not invade my privacy. Also, if God had meant me to fly, he would have given me wings!

Reading List for the Quarter

Bearers of the Black Staff
Author: Terry Brooks

Ancestors of Avalon
Author: Marion Zimmer Bradley

Priestess of Avalon
Author: Marion Zimmer Bradley

Next Newsletter: Winter 2010
Hopefully, about January, 2011

See you then!